MELGROVE VALLEY GUIDES

At the Guide meeting held at the home of Mrs. James on November 30th, it was decided to hold a public enrollment service on December 13th. Guides and parents met at the home of the captain on the 13th when the following girls were enrolled as tenderfoots: Inez, Maude and Kathryn Johnson, Beryl Saul, Merle and Goldie Baker.

At the close of the enrollment Mrs. Taylor of Jarrow, gave a splendid address urging especially the development of life on the four-fold plan as laid out in the Guide movement. The girls then put on a short social programme including a missing letter contest. Mrs. Tweedy being the winner.

Margaret O'Neill, Edith Routledge, Jenny James, Kathleen and Emma Johnson passed the Dairymaid test with very high marks. The next company meeting will be held on January 3rd, 1931 at the home of Mrs. J. Routledge, a meeting of the Guides' mothers being held at the same time. All mothers are asked to attend.

CHRISTMAS AT LOCAL CHURCHES

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

The Services next Sunday will be at Rosberry and Irma at the usual hours. There will be special music and the topic of the sermon will be "The Meaning of Christmas." The evangelistic services which have been held have been a great inspiration to the church. The special preachers have rendered splendid service and very satisfactory congregations shared in the work. We feel that a considerable impetus has been given to our church work and that the membership have been quickened to greater activity in Christian service.

I want to take this opportunity of giving the good old Christmas greetings. It was a happy day for the world when our Lord came in the form of a little child in Bethlehem.

We have not yet gained all the glory and beauty of that great event which God intends for us. They can come only when we give the truth of Christ its rightful place in our thought. The Spirit of Christ needs to reign in our hearts before the true significance of the Christmas message is realized and expressed in our daily lives. Christmas is not simply a day, nor a season, but a spirit that should characterize us at all times; then will come that peace and goodwill to fill our lives with gladness and good cheer. It is with such thoughts as these running in my mind that I wish all a happy, happy Christmas.

On Sunday, December 28th, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed. We are anxious to make this service of real inspirational value and all the members are urged to attend. We would also invite those who wish to join the church to attend this service, and to hand in their names to the pastor before Sunday so that they may be received into membership.

"CHRISTMAS TIDE"

Christmas Tide! oh, what a wonder! The twenty fifth day of December; We've been told to remember, Christ was born, Our Savior tender. On that night, a star of splendor, In the sky came forth a wonder.

Shepherds tending sheep by night, Saw the star that shone so bright, An Angel then with holy light, Told these men 'twould guide them right

To a child of their delight; The Holy Lord Jesus Christ.

Born in the far Orient, Our King! Lord of Lords! Well we might sing, And to Him our praises bring; Loud and clear, bells chime and ring, For 'twas given to us from Him Peace on earth, good will to men.

Since on the cruel cross he died, And went to Heaven, there to abide With God, His Father, by His side, He has prepared for the whole world

A home into which he will guide All the faithful, true and tried.

On each returning Christmas Tide, Give to Christ your heart to guide; Never ending faith in Him, Face to face Him 'twill bring, Where Christmas Day forever lights Eternal joy, through Jesus Christ.

By Mrs. G. F. Albrecht, Loughheed, Alberta.

Line Of Profitable Exploitation In Northern Areas Being Rapidly Pushed Backward

No doubt many people heard of the Sverdrup Islands for the first time when they read that this Arctic group now belong to Canada. The Dominion has paid Commander Orro Sverdrup the sum of $67,000 in return for his exploratory services in that region from 1895 to 1902; and in return the Government of Norway fully recognizes Canadian sovereignty, which now covers the entire Arctic sector north of the Canadian mainland.

The Sverdrup group has a total area about equal to that of Nova Scotia and according to Commander Sverdrup, who is corroborated by Inspector Joy, it holds a peculiar species of rabbit which marches upright on its hind legs. Otherwise the islands seem to be notable chiefly for the fact that they are our farthest-northern properties, 850 miles beyond the Arctic Circle.

So Commander Sverdrup has his $67,000 and we have the islands, and everybody seems to have come out of the deal with profit with the exception of the Government of Norway, and it is not complaining. We do not quite know what we are going to do with the islands. There appears to be no practical advantage in a rabbit which walks on its hind legs, and at the moment this Arctic is not a convenient summer resort. Nevertheless it is well that Canada's northern regions should be rounded off by legal possession of this group. Recalling the extraordinary manner in which the line of profitable exploitation has been pushed backward in recent years, few would care to predict that Sverdrup's discoveries are worthless. A few years ago Hudson and James Bays were far beyond the bounds of civilization—and now there is a railroad to Churchill and next year the rails are going to Moose Factory. The future may hold for the Arctic regions advances relatively just as sensational; and in the meantime a good many newspaper readers and editors will have consulted their atlases and will know just a little bit more about the receding North—Ottawa Journal.

Decrease In Fall Plowing

Only 36 Per Cent. As Compared With 46 Last Year

Full plowing was not so good this year as last. A crop report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics states: "For all Canada the proportion of land intended for next year's crops that had been plowed at October 31, 1930, is estimated at 36 per cent., as compared with 46 per cent. in 1929, and 29 per cent. in 1928. By province, the proportions for 1930 are as follows, with the corresponding figures for 1929 within brackets: Prince Edward Island, 60 (75); Nova Scotia, 32 (48); New Brunswick, 22 (58); Quebec, 74 (78); Ontario, 60 (58); Manitoba, 60 (84); Saskatchewan, 21 (19); Alberta, 8 (43); British Columbia, 43 (46)."

Alberta Gasoline Consumption

Preliminary figures compiled by the Deputy Provincial Treasurer for Alberta show that a total of 37,000,000 gallons of gasoline was purchased in the province during the first nine months of the year, resulting in a revenue of $1,850,000 to the province, less the refund on gasoline used for industrial purposes. Last year's nine months' purchases amounted to 34,600,000 gallons.

A National Undertaking

The B.C. Telephone Company has announced the beginning of construction of British Columbia's link in a complete trans-Canada telephone system. The provincial link will cost $1,250,000. All Canadian telephone companies are co-operating in this national undertaking.

World's Greatest Apple Continent

North America Is Famous For Its Many Varieties

North America is claimed to be the greatest apple continent in the world with orchards ranging from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Atlantic to the Pacific. From Nova Scotia come specimens that rank among the finest and when its fruit trees bloom in spring, their white and pink blossoms lend enchantment to the view. Quebec and Ontario, particularly the southern districts, present an equally attractive spectacle. On the Pacific coast the famous Okanagan Valley can hold its own anywhere. Which produces the finest variety is an endlessly debated question, though housewives have been reported as virtual bluffers for the Baldwin as the best, cooking apple.

The United States Department of Agriculture in a statement recently issued, produces figures showing that the consumption of apples in that country has doubled in the last ten to twelve years. While buyers show a decided preference for red apples, New York has a fairly good market for Greenings, as have Chicago and Philadelphia. Should the price ever get too high the New York Times reminds the consumer that during the gold rush of ninety years ago apples sold for from $60 to $70 a bushel in California. No less than 7,500 varieties of American apples have been recorded, but only fifty are regarded as of commercial importance. While apple have been cultivated in Great Britain since the period of the Roman occupation, that country is now this continent's best customer.

ATTENTION SCHOOL GIRLS!

All Tingey models are created and sketched in Paris and the patterns are made in New York.

If you'd like to look really smart, you must have a woollen frock with a bolero jacket.

For hardy wear, feather weight tweed offers a marvelous possibility, to say nothing of its decided chic. It is adorable in Bordeaux-red mixture with a blouse of plain white linen or wool jersey.

The all-round best-plaited skirt, belted at the normal waistline, is so pretty and girlish. The blouse has long sleeves, so the little bolero jacket may be removed when too warm in the classroom.

Wool challis prints, wool jersey crepe patterned and plain woolsens, covert cloth and tweed-like cottons are suitable for this practical model. This pattern may be obtained in sizes 6 to 14. It is ready for immediate delivery. It is hand cut.

Send 25 cents (in stamps or coin) to Fashion Bureau. Write carefully and plainly your name and full address, the number of the pattern and the size you want.

Planters Win Envious Place

British Experts Praise Flavor Of Canadian Grown Tobacco

At the exhibition of British industries held in London, England, at the beginning of the summer, manufacturers made a great display of the tobaccos grown in different parts of the Empire. The Canadian product, alongside Rhodesian and Indian tobacco, won a large measure of success. Its aroma and flavour were praised by the experts. It is well known that our tobaccos are cultivated nowadays for the best brands of cigars and cigarettes. The flavour which they enjoy is principally due to the care which is given to their culture and treatment. Planters understand the necessity of using scientific methods to get the industry established on a profitable business basis. They have adopted the best commercial varieties and have won an enviable place in British and foreign markets.

Russia Buys Hogs

Purchased Twenty Thousand Pigs From Germany

Twenty thousand pigs, worth several million marks, have been bought by the Soviet Government from German farmers and transported to Russia via Poland in sealed railway wagons. The Soviet is paying 20 per cent. of the purchase price in cash and the rest on a credit, guaranteed by the German Government. The pigs are to be used for breeding purposes, it is said, but it is believed in Germany that most of them will eventually find their way into the Russian slaughter houses.

Encourage Poultry Raising

Booklet To Be Sent Out This Winter To Saskatchewan Breeders

Between 3,000 and 4,000 poultry breeders of Saskatchewan will receive this winter a catalogue booklet to assist them in their work, according to arrangements made by the Saskatchewan Poultry Breeders' Association executive. The catalogue will contain the names of owners of "record of performance" flocks, of which there are from 15 to 18 in the province, approved flock breeders and turkey breeders.

Alberta's Rhodes Scholar

Kenneth W. Conibear, who achieved his early education by home study in the practically schoolless "cowland," is Alberta's Rhodes scholar for 1930. The selection has just been announced. Conibear, who hails from Fort Smith in the Northwest Territories, will graduate from the University of Alberta next May in honors philosophy, and leave in September next for a three-year course at Oxford.

Policy To Help Agriculture

Constructive Policies Are Outlined By Federal Minister Of Agriculture

Great increase in pork production in Canada on account of the grain situation was predicted by Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture for Canada at a recent banquet in Toronto given by him on behalf of the Federal Government to agriculturalists, business executives and government representatives attending the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair. Mr. Weir outlined a constructive policy for promoting greater prosperity for agriculture in Canada, emphasizing quality production. For improvement of live stock the Canadian Government will supply, stores where demand justifies, arranging change of location after two years and will supply breed sows of bacon type at cost to farmers, and hopes to import outstanding sires of different breeds of horses. It is also proposed to set up laboratories available at nominal fees to eradicate disease from poultry and to take effective steps to prevent importation of disease. Hon. Mr. Weir advocated more scientific methods of feeding, using home grown feeds and attention to science of marketing, as measures calculated to insure Canada's continued and increasing importance in agricultural production.

Not the Last Word

Commercial Fish May Yet Be Found In Northern Bay

The report of fish sterility in the deeper waters of Hudson Bay is not the last word in that important respect. There remain the shallower depths of James Bay, the estuary of immense inland streams where various species—and many fish—exist and have been taken. The same condition exists in Northern Manitoba where salt and fresh water combine, where food is washed into the inlets and stream mouths. Fish in commercial quantities have been taken there.

Deaths From Alcoholism

Deaths from alcoholism in the United States declined last year from the total attained in 1928. A census bureau tabulation of the total deaths attributed to that cause in the registration area—46 states, the District of Columbia and a group of nine cities in the other two states—showed 4,339 deaths against 4,627 recorded in 1928.

Cattle Shipments To Britain

Another shipment of cattle to Great Britain left Montreal recently—some 600 head—with a further shipment of 400 head scheduled to follow. The opinion is expressed that other orders are likely to go forward before the close of the year.

Represent West at Royal Winter Fair

New And Unique Mineral Found In Alberta May Have Far Reaching Possibilities

Crate Feeding Pays

Many Good Reasons Why Crate Feeding Of Poultry Is Profitable

Some very good reasons why crate feeding poultry pays are supplied by the Division of Poultry Husbandry of the Dominion Experimental Farms, among which are the following:—

Crate feeding pays because it produces the milked grades which bring the best prices.

The leading wholesale merchants are now buying poultry by government grades, with substantial differentials between each grade.

The premium assured for birds which grade "milked" makes crate feeding well worth while.

All poultry intended for eating purposes should be properly finished before being marketed.

The farmer should crate feed because: It is the only way by which he can get the premium assured for milked poultry; the last pound, which brings the finish, costs the least to produce and increases the value of the bird by from 50 to 75 cents or more; it is the best way in which to properly finish poultry for market.

The consumer wants milked poultry because: It is the milked grade alone which gives assurance of the quality which satisfies; it gives him the best value for his money in a tender succulent chicken; it comes from the oven tender, juicy and sweet, the kind of bird he really likes to eat.

To Produce Better Grain

J. C. Mitchell, Of Dahinda, Sask., Will Devote Energies To This End

Three times winner of the world's championship for wheat at the Chicago International Grain Show, J. C. Mitchell, of Dahinda, Saskatchewan, does not expect to compete for further honors at the world's grain show, in Regina, in 1932. Instead he will undertake educational work, among Saskatchewan farmers with the object of encouraging them to compete at the show.

Although Mr. Mitchell claims that there is a great deal of satisfaction in producing better grain than has ever been produced before, he has stated in the past that from a financial standpoint the experimental work does not offer much inducement to the average farmer.

Manitoba Butter

Sixty Carloads Shipped This Year To Toronto Market

M. A. Gibson, provincial dairy commissioner, states that since 1915 nearly $20,000,000 worth of creamery butter has been shipped out of Manitoba, the peak being reached in 1928, when 260 carloads, valued at $2,007,690 were shipped. This year 60 carloads have been shipped to the Toronto market where Manitoba creamery butter commanded a premium over the local product.

One On The Joker

One of a small company cracking jokes asked: "Can you tell me the difference between a Scotsman and a cocoanut?"

No answer being forthcoming, the speaker said, "Well, you can get a drink out of a cocoanut, but—"

"Excuse me," put in one of the company, "but I happen to be a Scotsman. Would you like a drink?"

"Oh, yes," eagerly answered the joker.

"Then buy a cocoanut," was the reply.

Germany Has Air Rules

A new set of aviation rules has just been issued in Germany. Planes must fly over cities at an altitude permitting them to make a forced landing at an airport. All planes must pass others from the right and must give a wide berth to the left when approaching a plane in the air. Red lights are to appear on a plane when it is about to land.

Air Line To Cape Town

The tragic loss of R-101 has not halted the British government's plans for future development of air routes with heavier-than-air machines. Early in the new year the first stage of the great airway across Africa to Cape Town will be opened and giant new machines carrying 40 passengers, multiple-engineered for safety, will be put in operation.

Strong Canadian Wood

Tests made by the Forest Products Laboratories of the Forest Service, Department of the Interior, Canada, show Douglas fir to be one of the strongest and stiffest of Canadian woods.

Long and somewhat secretive laboratory investigations are expected, shortly, to add a new mineral to the roster of the Dominion's products. Though research was carried on in university and industrial laboratories in the east, principally Toronto, manufacture is to be chiefly in the west.

The mineral is vermiculite, or as it is more commonly known, zonolite. Its potential uses are chiefly as insulation and as an acoustical treatment in buildings.

Samples of the raw material seen in Calgary, were, in appearance and to touch, like crude mica of dark green color. It is a silicate and insoluble in most acids. Coming from the mine, it varies in size from dust to pieces several square inches in area.

In the raw form, it weighs 144 pounds to a cubic foot. But, once heat is applied to it, it expands enormously till it has a bulk weight of approximately 10 pounds per cubic foot. It is this peculiar characteristic, research workers say, which gives it its commercial possibilities. It also changes in color to a lustrous gold. In Calgary, tests have been made by grinding the mineral over different size wire screens, then firing it in a 20 ft. kiln.

"The economic value of zonolite," says Angus Graham, Toronto research engineer, who came west to aid in the experiments, "is attributable to its thermal and sound insulating properties, its ability to withstand high temperatures, its light weight and pleasing appearance."

He goes on to say that not only does it not burn but that tests show that it does not readily transmit heat. Canadian experiments are supported by highly technical investigations carried on by the Bureau of Standards at Washington. The mineral was used as high temperature insulation for bake ovens and dry kilns, pipes and boilers.

Tests made by Prof. G. R. Anderson, of the University of Toronto, in his laboratory there demonstrated zonolite's ability to absorb sound. The eastern scientists used it in the form of a lustrous gold plaster, three-quarters zonolite, one-quarter wood pulp. His research shows that, at a tone frequency of 512, it has a sound absorptive coefficient of .25,—in other and non-technical words, it soaks up sound and noises to a degree that makes its use feasible in treating this nuisance in buildings. Since psychologists are, at the same time, reporting the adverse effect of too much noise on the human system, the discovery of the mineral is timely.

So far, chief sources of supply are in the United States, but traces of the material have already been found in Canada and these are being carefully followed up. Potential development is largely due to the work of Canadian engineers and scientists.

Possibilities of the mineral were discovered by accident. E. N. Alley, while prospecting an old mine shaft for molybdenum and vanadium, placed a miner's candle in the wall of the shaft. It touched a projecting piece of vermiculite. Noticing, with surprise, the expansion and change of color under the flame, he took samples. This led to the development.

Research work has been carried on with no publicity. Only now have the results been issued to technical papers. Nor will any of those linked with the work make claims for anything revolutionary. They simply list the characteristics of a new and unique mineral, expressing the opinion that it will soon be utilized commercially, and generally. It has already been tested in the west as an acoustic treatment on theatres. One large Canadian concern is, however, sufficiently impressed by the results to sponsor continued experiment and test manufacturing processes in the west.

New Species Of Deer

Two thousand caribou, a cross between a large woodland caribou and a reindeer, are to be distributed among the reindeer herds of Alaska. The herd has been built up through five years of experiments on Nunivak Island in the Behring Sea. The caribou breeding has produced an animal 50 pounds heavier than either the caribou or the reindeer, W. B. Miller, director of the work, says.

Heavy Wheat Shipment

A consignment of 200,000 bushels of wheat has been sold to the Mexican Government on behalf of the Canadian Wheat Pool. The deal was put through by the Canadian trade commissioner to Mexico, according to an announcement made at the office of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Dominion Minister of Trade and Commerce.

VIKING

Last Tuesday evening the members of Connaught Lodge No. 69, A.F. & A. M., and the wives and friends, held a social evening in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Little, and Dr. and Mrs. Saunders, who are leaving our community shortly. The entertainment consisted of cards, dancing and a banquet. R. Wor. Bro. McAtthey in a brief address voiced the regret that the lodge in particular and the community in general had, in losing the two doctors as members of the lodge and citizens of the community. On behalf of the lodge they were presented with gold pins, emblematic of the order. Suitable replies were made to this presentation by both of the doctors.

The Girls Gymnastic Class met at the Community Hall on Tuesday night. A business meeting was held first when the following officers were elected: Mrs. P. Miller, President; Miss Bertha McHenry, Vice-President; Miss Esther Wick, Treasurer. After this the girls got down to work and went through their physical exercises and finished up the evening with a few games which were very much enjoyed. Mr. L. Rasmussen is our very capable instructor.

About twenty members were present. Any other girls of the town or district wishing to join please get in touch with any of the above officers. The second appearance of the Juvenile Band, led by Ken Hilliker, bandmaster, took place at the Elks Hall last Wednesday evening. There were fifteen delightful items on the program each of which was roundly applauded. The band as a whole has made remarkable progress since their first concert early this spring, and the results obtained in such a short time are very encouraging, not only to the parents of the boys and girls in the band, but to the district as a whole, and it is a tribute to the leader's efficiency.

Among the numbers given besides the band selections was a trombone and cornet duet by E. Hardy and E. Alexander, a cornet and saxophone duet by Sid and Albert Loates, a scene in the band room, and a short sketch called Hay! Hay! in which Ken Hilliker, Agnes Wick and Lane McAtthey did some clever acting. Ken as the rube, Lane as lover, and Agnes as heiress, provided a lot of fun for twenty minutes. Ken also played a cornet solo with C. Harper at the piano.

The band consists of 33 members and have regular rehearsals every Monday night in the Band Hall. It won't be many months until this juvenile band will step out and play with the best of them. A larger crowd should have been in attendance, but those that attended felt that the organization is certainly doing well.

In speaking of the banquet that was held by the Bassano Board of Trade in honor of Dr. Haworth, who is leaving here, the Bassano Mail has the following to say:

Rev. P. C. McCrae gave the speech and presentation to Dr. Haworth, the parting gift being a club bag. Mr. McCrae described Dr. Haworth as one of the newer generation, full of energy and resourcefulness, and possessing unlimited ability. He wished him on behalf of the citizens of Lougheed every success in his new field of effort.

Dr. Haworth expressed sincere thanks for the gift and for the expressions of friendship and goodwill. He regretted leaving Bassano where he has spent two of the most interesting and pleasant years of his life.

At the election of officers of the Viking Elks Lodge the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Past Exalted Ruler, B. McLellan; Exalted Ruler, W. E. McDonald; Leading Knight, R. Brooke; Loyal Knight, R. Gilpin; Lecturing Knight, Jas. Craig; Tyler P. Bradley; Inner Guard, Nels Hafs; Trustee three years, H. Hagenson; Secretary H. P. Stock; Treasurer, P. E. Finch. After the business session a social hour was enjoyed.

The public in general were introduced to the Norwegian dish "Lutefisk" last Thursday evening when about three hundred of the people in the community sat down to long tables, heavily laden with good things to eat, at the Elks Hall. The chief item on the menu was lutefisk, and hundreds of pounds of this fish disappeared before everybody had been satisfied. After the dinner the floor was cleared and a large crowd enjoyed a dance until the wee small hours. It was sponsored by the Sons of Norway lodge.

A. McLaren hauled the household goods of Dr. and Mrs. Saunders to Calgary in his truck last Friday, returning with the household effects of Dr. and Mrs. Haworth from Bassano. Over seven hundred miles were covered to make the trip which was made without mishap.

On Saturday evening Mrs. S. Lefsrud entertained the Bridge Club at her home in honor of Mrs. Little and Mrs. Saunders, two of their members who are leaving town.

The Wastebasket

"Baby," he said, "I'm gonna tie myself on that Christmas tree, with a tag on me, 'From Me to You.'"

"Is everybody safe in camp?" asked B. C. Gilpin when he showed up one night from the day's moose hunt at camp last week. On counting noses the crowd yelled: "They are." "Well then, I must have got a moose, said Court.

A lady who was doing her Christmas shopping early, stepped into a dress store the other day and said: "I want to get a nice present for my husband. What do you advise?" May I ask how long you have been married, madam?" asked the clerk. "Oh, about fifteen years," she replied. "Well, we have a bargain counter in the basement," the clerk replied.

A bachelor girls' club, says a careful observer, is an association of women who think they are more likely to get husbands by pretending not to want them.

Heard at the ladies social: "Mrs. _____ never tells anyone her age." "Yes, I've noticed that, but her age is beginning to tell on her."

Heard at the poker party: "My wife is a canny housekeeper." "My wife doesn't know how to cook either."

A sailor who had been away on a long voyage received a letter at a port of call. On opening it, he took out a blank sheet of paper. His pal remarked: "Hey Bill, wot's the bloomin' idea of the blank paper?" "Gorblime," said Bill, "that's a letter from 'ome. Me and the missus ain't a-speakin'."

CAKE RECIPE

One of the latest recipe's for making a lovers wedding cake is as follows: Take four pounds of flour of love, half a pound of buttered youth, half a pound of good looks, half a pound of sweet temper, a couple of pounds of self-forgetfulness, a pound of powdered wits, half an ounce of dry humor, a tablespoonful of sweet argument, half a pint of rippling laughter, and one-half teaspoonful of common sense. Then put the flour of love, good looks and sweet temper into well furnished house. Beat the butter of youth to a cream. Mix together self-forgetfulness with a little blindness to faults, powdered wits and dry humor into the sweet argument, then add to the above. Pour in gently rippling laughter and common sense. Work it together until it is all well mixed, then bake gently forever. Be sure that it doesn't become only half baked.

A SIMPLE FORMULA

A lot of local capitalists who sweat and worry over the task of making their income tax returns can save themselves many a headache by following this simple formula, offered by an exchange firm of Chicago for future reference. It gives one man's solution to the puzzle.

He listed as dependents one blonde wife, a sedan car, three gold fish and two children. He then multiplied his grandfather's age by six and seven-eighths, subtracting his telephone number. Next he added the size of his hat and subtracted the number of his car. After these preliminaries he rest was easy.

Deducting $1,000 for keeping his wife a blond for the whole year, he divided the remainder by the number of lodges he belonged to, multiplied by the electric lights in the house, and then divided by the size of his collar. This gave his gross income, which after dividing his chest measure and subtracting his blood pressure, gave the net amount owed to the government.

Butcher—Excuse me, madam, but you haven't yet paid me for the turkey you had at Christmas.

Customer—No, my husband sprained his wrist so badly carving it that he hasn't been able to write out your cheque yet.

"Do you tell your girl everything?" asked one Killam fellow of another. "No, it isn't necessary," was the reply, "she's from Sedgewick and there isn't anything she doesn't know."

"I have just one request to make," said a hired man of a farmer in a neighboring district who had kept him working early and late. "What is that?" asked the farmer. "Just let me stay in bed long enough for the lamp chimney to cool off," was the reply.

A SELFISH SERVICE

Electric utilities are not only business enterprises—they are organizations for public service. They obtain their franchises on that basis. With those franchises they acquired certain responsibilities—one of them being to make their service most widely useful to the public.

We have for sale comfort, convenience, time-saving and freedom from drudgery. We have for sale better home conditions; a higher standard of living.

Electricity will not have done its full job as long as humanity uses for any tasks some agency which electric service could do better.

Resolutions Submitted at U.F.A. Constituency Meet at Camrose Tuesday Last

The Camrose U.F.A. Constituency convention held in the U.F.A. hall, Camrose, on Tuesday was well attended. Some thirty-five or forty delegates were present from Locals in the district. The Hon. V. W. Smith was present. He did not address the meeting from the platform but spoke to several resolutions and gave information on matters pertaining to his Department.

G. Roose, president of the U.F.A. Camrose Provincial Constituency Association, and Jno. Slattery, secretary, were in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Kahoe, vice-president, occupied the chair on occasion to permit the President to take part in the discussion of a resolution.

The first half hour of the meeting that opened at 2:00 o'clock was devoted to the appointment of a resolutions committee for the purpose of receiving and tabulating resolutions brought in by the various delegates.

The general trend of the resolutions submitted was governed by and reflected the conditions that prevail among the farmers today. Resolutions were drawn up with the object of giving a measure of relief and making it possible for him to weather the present financial depression. A very lengthy list of resolutions was submitted, some of which did not receive the endorsement of the Convention.

Some details of the business session follow:

A resolution was passed that a reduction be made in the amount of automobile license fees of 50 per cent.

A resolution was made and later withdrawn, that rural telephone rates be reduced to $15.00 per annum. Hon. V. W. Smith pointed out in this regard that a reduction as suggested would not solve the difficulty because conditions are such that if a subscriber cannot pay the existing fee, he would not be in any better position to pay a smaller fee. He stated that large sums of money have been spent on telephones in the Province in an effort to improve the service and it is now possible to speak to almost any part of the world as easily as it was to speak from city to city a few years ago. In view of the improved service, the present rate which is lower than in other provinces, is justified, because the service is worth more to the subscriber and the up-keep is greater.

Sixty per cent of the subscribers composed chiefly of towns and cities are in good standing, while the other forty per cent owe amounts ranging from less than five dollars to more than twenty-five dollars. Mr. Smith believes that a deficit in the Telephone Department is unavoidable for this year, and it is the intention of the Department to keep it as low as possible through maintaining present rates. The convention saw with Mr. Smith in this matter and the resolution was withdrawn.

Another resolution dealing with telephones was made that a portion of the profits of the department of Natural Resources be used to help defray expenses in connection with the maintenance of rural toll offices. (Mr. Smith spoke to this motion stating that it was not the policy of the Government to use funds from the general revenue to support a department of utilities, and, therefore, in his opinion the resolution would not receive consideration. The resolution was tabled.)

A resolution was introduced whereby the rural subscriber would receive a portion of the annual fee as reimbursement for use made of his phone by his neighbor. Mr. Smith was of the opinion, that while the use of a phone in this manner is irregular, it is done, and should be a matter for settlement between the subscriber and his neighbors. He suggested that if the neighbor did not see why he should pay for the use of the phone, the subscriber might take him outside on the grass and convince him by hand.) The resolution was not supported.

Tariff matters received attention and a number of resolutions were passed dealing with this all-important subject. The first resolution under this head was to the effect that a higher tariff be placed on all foreign products coming into Canada to assure a home market for Canadian producers. This paper created discussion pro and con, and resulted in the resolution being redrafted before it was finally passed, to read, "Whereas wheat at present prices is selling below cost of production, thereby causing financial distress, and whereas the farmers are now urged as an economic remedy to produce greater quantities of beef, pork, mutton and dairy products, and whereas there is just as great danger of over-production in these commodities with consequent loss to the producer as in the case of wheat, unless we are assured of a profitable market, and whereas Canada is purchasing large supplies of farm products from other countries with which we cannot compete in price; therefore be it resolved that we protest strongly against this unfair competition and ask the Dominion government to put heavier tariff on all farm produce coming into the country so that we may at least have the Canadian market for the Canadian farmer. Be it further resolved that the reason we ask for this protection on farm products is because the farmer is placed at the present time in an unfair position as compared with some of the other interests, because of the fact that these other interests are highly protected."

A resolution was also passed asking the Dominion Government to adopt some method of tariff equitization in order that the producer might benefit equally with other interests.

A resolution to the effect that delegates to Wheat Pool conventions be asked to confine their discussions strictly to wheat matters was lost. Other resolutions of a general nature were passed as follows:

1. That we commend the efforts of establishing a condition of trade preference between Canada and Great Britain and that we urge the Dominion Government to review trade treaties and trade exchanges with all foreign countries and as far as possible put them on a "quid pro quo" basis, where the balance of trade is now against the Dominion of Canada.

2. That in the grading of poultry, the Government inspection grade be placed on the bird instead of on the container.

3. That whereas large quantities of corn are being imported into Canada for poultry and other feed purposes, and whereas we have large quantities of low grade wheat as well as barley and oats, which can be prepared for such purposes and so help create a market, therefore be it resolved that we ask the Dominion Government to put on a campaign inducing the Canadian consumer to use more Canadian produced farm products.

4. That whereas at the present time the farmer is subject to serious hardship in matters of foreclosure for debt and mortgage, therefore be it resolved that there is the utmost need of the Government taking action in this regard and we ask that the government pass an act at the next meeting of the Legislature giving judges discretionary powers in dealing with matters of debt foreclosure.

5. That whereas other Provinces of Canada return the entire tax on gasoline used for farm operations, therefore be it resolved that we ask the provincial Government to rebate in full the tax imposed on gasoline where used for farm purposes.

6. That we, the United Farmers of Alberta, join with British Columbia in support of the farmers there in their campaign against the influx of oriental immigration.

7. Whereas we believe all wheat should be handled by one agency, therefore be it resolved that all Canadian wheat be marketed under the one marketing agency.

8. That legal assistance be furnished by the Association to the individual farmer, in cases where the farmer is unable to provide legal advice for himself, when action is being taken for seizure and enforcement of mortgages by his creditors.

9. That the Dominion Government be asked to reduce the freight rate on wheat.

10. That the Dominion Government be asked to reduce existing interest rates on borrowed money.

11. That present banking laws be revised to permit of the issuing of all currency by the Federal Government.

12. That a price of $1.15 per bushel for wheat No. 1, Fort William, be established by the Dominion Government.

13. That in case a price is set, the acreage also be controlled;

14. That we request the Government to make an inspection of the present system of grading grain, due to dissatisfaction at some points;

15. That foreign countries and their agents be stopped from selling short on the Canadian market;

16. That the Alberta Wheat Pool discontinue their broadcast. This resolution was referred to the Wheat Pool;

17. That the Annual U.F.A. convention be asked to vote by ballot on the more important questions to come before it.

18. To protest against the amount of money that rural high school students are required to pay when attending school in town.

THE GREAT DESIRE

Parents and teachers long to educate children into being the perfect man and perfect woman. Every mistake the child makes is a stab in the faithful loving heart of the hovering spirit. Everything that is good, everything that is lovely, is placed before the children. And still they turn aside and do evil.

There is an infinite law that decrees that each shall sow and reap his own harvest. There is none to do it for him. There is no way to which the best of teachers, the most enlightened parent can put anything into the soul of a child. Example, instruction, care, he can bestow but unless the child accepts, what matter all the anxiety and care?

Is our training then so utterly useless? Are we so completely helpless? There is a group of children who have been born into the world defective. This group must be gathered into special schools, special colonies, and kept there until they show indication of self control and self guidance, or, because they show no such power, held there to the end. The great group of children are normal healthy, effective beings. We can guide and direct them in such a way as to foster in them a deep desire, to be good, to be fine people.

The best way to do that is to be what one would have the children be. That is where most of us fail. We would have them industrious and we in their presence, scold the worker and adore the easy-going idler whose family endowed him with riches and faculty. We teach one way and live another.

Daily we balance dangerously between two worlds. We would be gentle and kind and unselfish but alas, it costs too much. We cannot bear that another should enjoy what we covet. And we covet the earth and its fullness. Before we can hope to have our children express the great desire we must express it ourselves in our daily lives. Children follow where we lead. What they are, these healthy normal children, we have made them.

We cannot teach a child unselfishness by force. We cannot give him wisdom through sermons. We cannot give him knowledge. We cannot give him power. Before he can add a single cubit to his stature he must desire to do so. We can create that desire by making it appear lovely. We can make the child desire grace of the Mauritania for his old home and beauty and serenity of spirit by in England. He expects to arrive in showing him the worthiness of these mother, brother and sisters. It will be rather a sad home coming as his father passed to the Great Beyond a man and to do a man's work in the year ago, when William was residing world? Show him the way and he in Canada. ## Liner Stopped To Aid Islander

As the liner "Ionic" was passing lonely Pitcairn Isle, in the Pacific, it received an appeal for help for a man dying from lockjaw. The liner was stopped, and the ship surgeon was taken ashore in a small boat. He treated the man, who rallied, and gave the islanders instructions as to nursing and treatment before returning to the liner.

Tree Seed Planted From Air

The forestry department of Hawaii has been engaged this season in planting tree seed by aeroplane. A U.S. army plane was used on the job. It was flown over a large eroded area and 1,689 pounds of seeds were dropped from an elevation of 2,000 feet. Mixed seed was used.

Canada's Fishing Grounds

Most Extensive In World and Yield Is Exceptional In Variety

"The Dominion's fishing grounds, both sea and inland, are perhaps the most extensive in the world and they yield food fishes in exceptional variety. Of prime natural quality, these fish are marketed in numerous different forms—fresh, frozen, canned, dried, smoked, etc.—by an industry whose processing methods have kept pace with the most approved fisheries practices. As a result, fresh or prepared fish of the first quality are always available to the Canadian consumer. It is also to be said that, in many cases fish foods are cheaper than other food products."

As indicating the importance of the fishing industry to the country a statement of the Department of Fisheries points out that the industry represents an investment of some $62,000,000, and is the direct source of livelihood for some 30,000 Canadians and their dependents as well as an indirect source of employment for a large number of workers in various industries in all parts of the Dominion. Annual fisheries production now runs between fifty and fifty-five million dollars and the fisheries add approximately $36,000,000 to the country's export trade every year. The fisheries resources, however, are capable of much further development and increasing popular attention to their exploitation on sound lines must make the fishing industry a still greater contributor to the economic strength of the Dominion.

About Tuberculosis

Educational Plan To Combat Disease Waged In All Parts Of The Dominion

Great encouragement has been given in the last ten years to those people who believe that much of our disease can be prevented.

Every doctor and almost every enlightened layman holds this belief and the encouragement which the last ten years has brought to these people is evident in the success which is crowning the efforts of those people who are fighting that dread destroyer, Tuberculosis.

The death from all forms of Tuberculosis has dropped about one per hundred thousand population per year or from 90 to 10 in ten years. During the same interval the sanatorium treatment beds have increased from 4,000 to 7,000.

It is interesting to note how this has been accomplished. Canadians are fortunate in having an excellent organization working on their behalf in this regard—the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, which organization has for years been in the very forefront of the battle against this disease. They have carried the warning against tuberculosis right to the minds of the general public. They have waged an educational campaign against it in all parts of the Dominion. But they have done more than merely to warn and to alarm. They have been responsible for many cures and for a very great deal of prevention. One of the most interesting phases as well as the most needed of their work is the branch which is devoted to studies by physical medical examination. People in whole districts are frequently examined for signs of incipient tuberculosis and many cases are found of people who are afflicted with tuberculosis in its incipency. Since the disease at this stage is almost certainly and permanently curable the Association is thus responsible for the saving of many lives and the prevention of much misery.

In this connection the Annual Christmas Sale should be mentioned. This sale which receives the support of all classes of citizen serves a valuable and two-fold purpose. First of course it raises money. This is used for local committees to maintain diagnostic and home visiting nursing services. Secondly the annual educational campaign of the Christmas Seal sale gives the public much needed information about the work and the need for the work.

"The type of citizen who buys Christmas Seals" an official of the organization recently said, "is not the kind to let his brother down."

Fostering Home Industry

Saskatchewan Caught Fish To Be Used In Provincial Institutions

With a view to fostering the fishing industry in the northern part of the province, the government is substituting Saskatchewan-caught whitefish for the British Columbia product, formerly used in the mental hospital at Weyburn, the industrial school, Regina, and the old folks home, Wolsley.

The government has also written to the secretary of the Anti-Tuberculosis league suggesting the introduction of the Saskatchewan-caught whitefish in the sanatoria at Fort Qu'Appelle, Prince Albert and Saskatoon.

Ranches Change Hands

Ranch lands totalling 60,000 acres in southeastern Alberta have recently changed hands in exchange for Seattle, Washington, property, the amount involved being reported at $1,500,000. The ranches were formerly known as the "76" or "Jim English" ranch. The new owners intend stocking the land with pure bred cattle and polo ponies.

The Spirit Of The Red Cross

What The Junior Red Cross Is Trying To Accomplish For Peace

When the great conference of the world's Red Cross Societies met in London, England, with the Duke of York as Chairman, they saw at a play what the Junior Red Cross is trying to do in the world for peace, and health, and happiness.

In the words of the Spirit of Red Cross the trinity of aims was well expressed as follows:

I am the Red Cross; who am known of all men

To my mental and compassionate. And of my fellowship are such as would fain serve

The sick and the suffering. Many there be of my servants who have won

But for the most part their reward lies hidden

In the hearts of men. And now call I the children to be of my company.

For they, too, can be helpers. Following after their fashion in my footsteps

And weaving the threefold thread Of Health, Help and Friendship.

Bar Convict Labor Goods

United States Takes Action To Prevent Importation Of This Nature

The treasury promulgated regulations against the importation of convict made goods, while a witness was telling the House Communist investigating committee how prisoners fare in Soviet camps.

The regulations require importers and shippers to show that importations from all countries are not produced by convict labor.

Russian goods have figured in several recent hearings at which the treasury was asked to bar certain products, but in announcing the regulations, Assistant Secretary Lowman said they were "not directed against Russia, but against everybody." They were issued under a law which required importers, to post bond and submit a certificate of origin showing unpaid convicts did not manufacture the articles.

Demand For White Spruce

Is Most Important Commercial Tree Native To Canada

White spruce is the most important as well as one of the most widely distributed commercial tree species in Canada. It is found from the maritime provinces to British Columbia, and as far north as the mouth of the Mackenzie river within twenty miles of the Arctic ocean. It is one of the most northerly growing of Canadian trees. The white spruce is one of five native spruces. It is estimated by the forest service of the Department of the Interior, that the total spruce stand, all species, in Canada is about 60,000,000,000 cubic feet of timber, or about 35 per cent. of the total softwood stand. The estimate of white spruce is about 20,000,000,000 cubic feet, or one-third of the total spruce timber standing.

White spruce probably forms the greater part of the spruce lumber on the market, and its use has increased in recent years with the growing scarcity of white pine. It is used in greatest quantities by the manufacturers of building materials. Large quantities are used for siding, flooring, and roof sheathing, as well as for the manufacture of sash, door, and house trimmings. It is one of the leading woods in millwork of all kinds. Up to 1926 spruce ranked first in the amount of lumber produced annually, and it now ranks second only to Douglas fir. The average annual cut of spruce lumber is approximately 1,180,000,000 feet B.M., with a value of $32,000,000.

Copyright Act

May Decide To Seek Amendment To The Existing Act

Churches, exhibitions, bazaars and other charitable or public organizations may be obliged to pay thousands of dollars for performing rights to music they use unless an amendment is made to the Canadian Copyright Act.

Such was the view put forward at the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Exhibitions held in Toronto recently. The association decided to consider the sending of a deputation to Ottawa to lay a request for an amendment before the government.

An Ice Cream Tree

One tree in the green-house of Mrs. M. A. Hora at Memphis, Tenn., is very popular with the children. It bears a fruit that "tastes like strawberry ice cream and looks like corn." It takes the ears 15 months to ripen, according to Mrs. Hora, who got the tree from a St. Louis florist six years ago. The kernels are soft and mushy and very rich.

Done By Advertising

The will of the late Honorable P. C. Larkin, amounted to $3,500,000 the bulk of which was left to his family. As Mr. Larkin started as a tea merchant in a very humble way, his success is a striking example of what can be achieved by energy, enterprise and advertising. From practical obscurity he left a name that is known throughout the entire world.

May Tax U. S. Publications

Federal Government Likely To Impose Some Form Of Duty

The Montreal Gazette published the following despatch from Ottawa:

"A determined effort to lessen what amounts to unfair competition for Canadian manufacturers is almost certain to be made by the present government in its revision of the tariff for the coming session, by imposing some form of duty against periodicals entering Canada and bearing a large amount of advertising of foreign-made goods. Such a blow would be aimed at large weekly publications from the United States, and it is expected that the duty will be imposed on a percentage basis, and that the publishers will be required to furnish advance copies of their publications to the department of national revenue for purpose of appraisal."

Bounty Aids Butter Import

Reason Australia Can Compete With Canadian Product Says Caulder

The reason Australian butter can compete on the Canadian market is because there is a bounty of about nine cents on every pound exported, thus giving the Australian exporter leeway in price-cutting, according to J. A. Caulder, former president of the National Dairy Council of Canada.

Mr. Caulder pointed out that for every four pounds of butter produced in Australia, one pound was for export.

The speaker pointed out that 60 per cent. of the Canadian West was suitable for dairy production, and he strongly recommended introduction of more mixed farms in the West to overcome the present wheat depression.

Plotting Against Soviets

Reports State Leon Trotsky Is Directing Operations

Despatches to the Telegraph Union from Kovno, Lithuania, recently said the OGPU (Soviet secret police), had discovered an elaborate plot by anti-Communist factions in South Russia with headquarters at Taganrog.

The report said the plotters were acting under the direct advice of the exiled Leon Trotsky, who was reported to be at Istanbul, with the object of overthrowing the Stalin government.

CHAPTER VII.—Continued.

"You shouldn't feel that way," he went on after a thoughtful moment. "There's nothing in the least crude about you; but sometimes, dear, you're not so—so friendly with folks as I am. Perhaps you're bashful, but I've sometimes thought you'd be misunderstood by strangers. Tonight, you know—really you weren't especially cordial, Gay."

"Was I—impolite?"

Her voice trembled, and Nick said quickly: "Lord, no! But I couldn't help wishing you'd act more—well the way you act with me."

A queer little smile crossed Gay's face.

"The lady might be surprised, Nick, if I held her hand, or anything like that."

She expected a laugh, but he seemed not to have heard. He sat quite still, watching the shadows cast by the street light across the way. An automobile passed by, going too rapidly, but he took no notice. Two lovers strolled along the sidewalk, talking the night to hide their encircling arms, and, un-Nick-like, Nick made no comment. He seemed suddenly far away, and Gay moved close again to rest her cheek against his arm.

"It's a ripping night," said Nick. He drew a deep breath—almost a sigh. "I'd like to start right now and walk till sunrise."

Gay's cheek pressed closer.

"I—sometimes feel that way, too, Nick; and then I wonder if ever we'll do such things again. I can't of course; but there's no reason in the world why you shouldn't, you dear vagabond."

Nick smiled.

"The kids are a pretty substantial reason, seems to me, not to mention the bank! A fine day's work I'd do tomorrow if I tramped all night." He arose reluctantly. "Come, dear, we must go up to bed. You're tired. Who was it told us that two babies were no more work than one?"

"Whoever it was—she was a cheerful liar, I—think!" He sat down suddenly and laid a detaining hand upon her arm. "There's Mrs. Halliday at the piano. She sings like a bird. Let's listen."

It was next day that Mary Maxwell made her call. She gave her report that evening, when she and John sat contentedly rocking on their comfortable screened porch.

"It was hot as summer at four o'clock, Johnny," she began, "so I wore my lilac veil, and carried a sunshade, the fluffy one Tom sent me for Judy's graduation. I looked real 'nifty,' as Tom, Jr. would say, and up-to-date. I feel sure there was nothing in my appearance for Mrs. Halliday to criticize."

"I'd like to see her try!"

John's tone was belligerent, and Mary laughed.

"I got my first shock when the door was opened," she continued. "Who do you suppose opened it?"

"St. Peter?" suggested her husband hopefully; but Mary was much too interested in her subject to notice this frivolous rejoinder.

"Julie Nipps! She's there permanently, and Mrs. Halliday got her all rigged up in a cap and apron. I should have thought she'd roast."

"If you refer to Julie, and she wore only a cap and apron," began the listener, when his wife cut in: "John—"

Maxwell, don't try to be funny, or interrupt. It was the black dress I meant—nohah, my dear—long sleeve—with cuffs, and the thermometer at eighty! I like a well-dressed maid as much as anyone, but I've never yet forgotten that they're flesh and blood like the rest of us; I'm black, in summer, and long sleeves—"

"It's only May, my dear."

"Well, May in Bakersville might be August anywhere else. Anyhow, I wanted to scream because Julie looked so funny. She's bobbed her hair, and—"

"Je-hoshaphat!" exclaimed John Maxwell. "She must look—"

"She does. I told you I wanted to scream. But I didn't, I said, with really remarkable self-control. Good-afternoon, Julie: Is your mistress at home?"

"You mean Miss Halliday?" asked Julie. "I heard her say last night that she did hope no more stupid Bakersvillians would call; but there ain't nothin' stupid about you, Miss Maxwell, so I guess she'll see you."

"You wait, and I'll go find out."

"Oh, Lordy!" chuckled John Maxwell, rocking with mirth. "Oh, Lordy! If that isn't Julie to the life! Well, my dear, were you eligible?"

"Evidently I was, Julie left me at the door, but I went into the living-room myself, to save the girl a scolding in case Mrs. Halliday saw fit to receive me. Oh, Johnny! you should see that room! Whatever else the woman is, she knows how to arrange a house. White paint—soft grey walls—a few fine water colors to brighten things—comfortable chairs—a beautiful piano at the north end—soft-shaded lamps—"

"Look here," interrupted John Maxwell suddenly, "are you making an inventory for the insurance man?"

"I could," answered his wife decidedly. "I saw everything there. I waited plenty of time. I waited twenty minutes. The draperies—"

"Cut out the draperies, my dear, and come to the woman, my dear, who interests me."

"Well, my dear John, most men would have found her interesting. She wore a blue Japanese silk that matched her eyes so perfectly that you could see nothing else. Her hair—well, in these days of bobs it was really noticeable, and unless she keeps a maid to do it for her, she has my sympathy! Yet it looked simple. Any man would have called it simple—except her husband. She wore silver slippers, John—in the afternoon—in Bakersville! Her stockings—"

"I understood," said John Maxwell with a touch of good-natured sarcasm. "That you saw nothing but her eyes. What did she say?"

"She made a very pretty apology for keeping me waiting. It seems that after lunch she 'relaxes' until four-thirty. How does one relax, John? I doubt if I've ever done it, but it sounded delightful. I wondered if she made Julie relax too! I admired the house, and she seemed gratified. It was the garden, however, that brought them to Bakersville. She adores gardens and growing things [with the exception of children, I gathered later]. Nature is rather a hobby with her—a pose, if I'm not mistaken; though her eyes (childlike and bland) don't half describe them, Johnny," bellowed his judgment.

"She offered to show me the garden. When I assented she touched a bell and Julie appeared. Poor Julie! She cast an apologetic glance at me, John, and—bowed a courtesy! Imagine it! Julie Nipps, who's gone out by the day to everyone in Bakersville for the last ten years, bobbing a courtesy. It must be some new idea. And Mrs. Halliday said: 'Julie, we'll have tea in the pergola,' and Julie bobbed again and scuttled out of the room."

"Taking her bobbed hair with her, I suppose," supplemented John Maxwell. "Go on."

"I'd go on faster if you didn't make such ridiculous additions to my story. We went outside, through a beautiful new French door, Johnny, and just as we reached the pergola Mr. Halliday came out of it. He saw me and he was too late to dodge, which was his evident desire, so she had to present him."

"Do you know, John Maxwell, for a moment I felt sorry for that woman, tied to such a tombstone of a man; but when I left, the shoe was on the other foot. I was sorry for him."

"Now we're getting at the facts," John Maxwell drew a satisfied breath, and his wife laughed.

"We've been getting at them all the time," she said pitily. "Only you're too dense to see it. Don't you know that a woman's house is her temple—that nothing in it is too trivial to have some meaning? That living-room now—for all its dainty touches it's a room a man would adore: big chairs, you know, and lights just right for reading and—"

"In mercy's name don't return to that living-room," exclaimed John Maxwell. "Get back to the pergola, Julie."

"Julie Nipps! She's there permanently, and Mrs. Halliday got her all rigged up in a cap and apron. I should have thought she'd roast."

"If you refer to Julie, and she wore only a cap and apron," began the listener, when his wife cut in: "John—"

DON'T SUFFER WITH DANGEROUS INDIGESTION

Do you suffer after meals with a belching, from sour and acid stomach? Many believe they have heart trouble and tremble with fear, expecting any minute to drop dead. This condition can be prevented, likewise relieved. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills after meals and neutralize the acids. Sweeten the sour and acid stomach, relieve the gas and encourage digestion. The stomach, liver and bowels will be cleansed of poison, painful and dangerous indigestion disappears and the system enjoys a tonic effect. Don't delay. Ask your druggist for a 25c pkg. of Carter's Little Liver Pills.

and what made you sorry for Mr. Halliday."

"Well, I can hardly explain it; but once he was introduced she almost ignored him; though in justice to her I'll admit that he didn't seem to care, and he kept looking at her in a perfectly maddening way, as much as to say, 'What new pose is this, I should like to know?'"

"I'd like to know?" "I'd like to leave us once, but just then Julie appeared with a tea wagon—"

"Did she ask Julie to pour tea?" queried John Maxwell innocently.

His wife threw him a withering glance; then she shook with mirth.

"It was a joke on me, John, but for just a second I thought it was a baby carriage! I didn't think they had children, but—"

"They haven't. Nick tells me that children would interfere with their careers."

Exploring With Motor Car

Detour Is Sometimes Amusing When Strange Roads Beckon

The motorcar hums merrily along a new, cement road. There are no cracks no washboard ripples; there is almost the sensation of flight. On each side garish solicitations invite you to buy things varied and sundry. Small roadside merchants urge you to tarry.

At a sudden, on rounding a low curve, there comes into view a little road that noses into the great cement thoroughfare like a nondescript little dog into pedigreed kennels.

A stone wall straggles along its sides and trees form a canopy over its rough-hewn bed. Something whispers and you give the wheel a sudden turn. The car bumps along at a more sedate pace. The road turns and twists up a hill, down a valley beside a chuckling brook.

Around a sharp bend appears a weathered old house topped by a great square chimney and flanked by a great rambling barn whose doors yawn rakishly on worn hinges. Chickens scurry out of your way and cows look solemnly on from the bars.

You catch the twinkling of tanned legs as a barefooted boy runs out, goggle-eyed to see you pass. The appearance of an automobile is something of an event on this road.

Like old days. You smile. A word comes from the back seat. "John, where in the world are you going?" You don't know, but you don't say so.

A branch road beckons from the right narrower, more rocky than the first. A mile farther along there is another. You make turns willy nilly. No signs. Where will you end up?

Miles pile up; also dust on the glossy surface of the car. The back seat grows increasingly articulate. But it is your party. You are having a glorious time.

You coast down a long tortuous hill till a warning blast jams your foot on the brake. Lines of cars flash by like an old-time motion picture and a little sadly you rejoin the procession and roll along smoothly with silence at the rear, a smile on your face and memories in your heart. You have been an explorer for an hour.

Tracing Migratory Birds

Much valuable information concerning Canada's birds is being secured through the co-operation of the National Parks of Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, with the United States Biological Survey. Year in, year out, migrations of birds are traced and recorded by means of placing dated bands on the legs of the birds. Nearly all the field work in connection with this is done by voluntary co-operators.

Those Good Old Days

Bringing up children has certainly become more complex with the onward march of civilization and it wasn't so many years ago that practically the only worry a mother had was to keep the children away from the horses' heels.

Hull, England, with a population of 300,000, is just substituting electricity for gas for street lighting.

Death of Capt. Sverdrup

Famous Norwegian Arctic Explorer Dies At His Home In Norway

Canada had a very particular interest in Captain Otto Sverdrup, the famous Norwegian explorer who died at Oslo, Norway. It was quite recently that the Dominion Government announced the payment of $67,000 to Captain Sverdrup in recognition of services which he performed in the realm of scientific research. As his activities were largely in the northern islands of the Canadian archipelago, it was recognized that his discoveries and studies had been of peculiar benefit to Canada. The sum was also paid the Norwegian explorer as a consideration for the delivery to the Dominion of all original maps, records, diaries and other materials in his possession.

On behalf of the government of Canada, Sir George Perley, acting prime minister, has called to the British minister at Oslo, Norway, asking that he convey to the Norwegian Government Canada's regret in the death of Commander Sverdrup. In his cable, Sir George refers to Commander Sverdrup's "splendid services to Arctic exploration," which, he says, have long been recognized in Canada.

Varieties Are Numerous

Japanese Glad To Secure Chrysanthemum Growers In Canada

The flower of gold, or the golden flower, for this is the literal meaning of the word chrysanthemum, may have been a term appropriate enough when it was first cultivated in the orient, but now its application is dubious. Horticulturists, and particularly those in the west, have developed so many shades and varieties that they almost range across the spectrum. When the chrysanthemum was first introduced into Canada we do not know, but it is less than 200 years since the first blooms of this plant were admired as a curiosity in Kew gardens, London, England. Probably the chrysanthemum came to Canada about the time that it reached the United States, in 1861, then in the throes of the civil war. But since that date the varieties developed on this continent have been so diverse and so numerous that the Japanese have been delighted to secure them. We have become so accustomed to chrysanthemum shows that it is not easy to realize that the first show among the English-speaking peoples was staged in Norwich only 101 years ago.

Contrary To Drugs Act

Oysters Contain More Arsenic Than Can Be Sold In Foodstuffs

No poison has taken a greater hold upon public attention than arsenic, yet few realize that this most deadly drug is also one of the vital necessities of life. Many marine animals contain quite appreciable quantities of arsenic and some surprising facts bearing on this fact have lately come to light. Dr. Orton, at the Marine Biological Laboratory at Plymouth, has ascertained that oysters contain more arsenic than is allowed to be sold in foodstuffs, and that various other molluscs and crustaceans similarly contravene the Food and Drugs Act.

Wisdom Of St. Swithin

Idea Of Helping Poor People Could Be Used Today

Among the achievements of St. Swithin was the creation of a kind of poor law to meet the needs of his time. This was an ordinance that every ten families should be responsible for keeping one poor person. There can be little doubt that each "union" of ten families saw to it that work was found as quickly as possible for their ward, and that he was taken off this eighth century dole at the earliest possible moment. Public opinion in every village in those days was less diluted with tenderness for the wretchedly idle than it is today.

Persian Balm Promotes Daintiness

Charm and beauty. Magical in its effect on the skin. There is nothing like it for creating and preserving a lovely complexion. Cooling, caressing, it soothes and relieves all roughness caused by weather conditions. Delicately fragrant, it enhances the most finished appearance. Makes the skin radiant and fresh. ## Musk-Oxen In Northern Canada

Between Nine and Ten Thousand Animals In The North

Between 9,000 10,000 musk-oxen roam the northern islands and mainland of Canada, according to the estimate of W. H. B. Hoare, of the Department of the Interior, whose report of his examination of the Thelon game sanctuary east of Great Slave Lake has just been issued by the Northwest Territories and Yukon Branch. Mr. Hoare spent two years in the north, 1928 and 1929.

Canada and Greenland are the only countries in the world where at present the musk-ox is to be found in its natural state. It equals in size one of the small breeds of Welsh and Scotch cattle and in appearance resembles a small buffalo.

There are 250 of the animals in the Thelon sanctuary, while Mr. Hoare believes the greatest herd is on Melville Island where 4,000 herd roam today. He estimates about 1,000 musk-oxen in North and East Greenland.

R. M. Anderson, chief of the biological division of the National Museum in an appendix to the report, gives a higher estimate, stating Canadian herds total 12,900 animals and Greenland 1,500.

Road Gravelled To Park

Highway From Prince Albert To National Park Is Now Completed

The highway from Prince Albert to the Prince Albert National Park is now an all gravelled, all weather road, while the graveling from Saskatoon to Prince Albert is rapidly approaching completion. This was the statement made at the quarterly meeting of the Prince Albert Board of Trade, when great satisfaction was expressed at this accomplishment, which, it is anticipated, will be of great value to this city.

P. W. Mahon, chairman of the transportation committee, commented at length on the benefits accruing to Prince Albert through the highway, and stated that while it was an expensive undertaking yet he believed it was a forward step.

Satisfaction at the possibility of developing a power unit at the Big Bend on the Saskatchewan River was also expressed. Hydro power from this source within the next few years in quantities sufficient to supply the province was visualized.

Nation-Wide Fume. — There is scarcely a corner of this great Dominion where the merits of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil have not been tried and proved. It is one of the world's most efficient remedies for sore throat, lame back and many other ailments arising from inflammation. Rubbing it on the skin its healing powers is readily absorbed, and it can also be taken internally.

Flaky Pie Crust

The secret of making good pie crust is: "Use Purty Flour—and keep the dough soft." Try this recipe for 2 shells:

3 cups Purty Flour 1 egg laid 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 cup cold water.

METHOD: Mix the flour and salt, cutting in the egg, gradually adding exact quantity of water but not a drop more. Use new water, dry case, and the pie crust will be even baker.

Turn out on board very lightly sprinkled with Purty Flour. Roll about 1/8 inch thick. Spread balance at shortening evenly over, fold over three times and roll again to required thickness. Bake in hot oven (300°).

Norway Secures Island

Claim To Island Off Greenland Coast Is Recognized By Great Britain

It is officially announced that Great Britain has recognized the Norwegian claim to the Island of Jan Mayen, a desolate land lying between Greenland and North Norway in the Arctic sea. Norway's claim to sovereignty was put forward in a royal decree dated last May 8.

In general it is accepted that the island was discovered by Henry Hudson, British navigator, in 1607.

The island is 34 miles long and nine miles wide at its greatest breadth.

A WORD FOR CHRISTMAS

Perhaps the word for Christmas that would best fit into the need of most of us would be, not some elaborate argument on the meaning of the incarnation, or an eager searching to understand the deep things touching Advent that lie at the foundation of our Christian faith, but rather a simpler word suggesting our duty and privilege of being more simply and sincerely Christian than we have been. From the philosophical and theological points of view our guesses at the meaning of Christmas will probably always be very much guesses, but we can hardly have any difficulty in understanding it from some other points of view. Reading the story of the first Christmas again we cannot fail to realize that it is trying to teach us lessons of humility and simplicity and kindness and human friendliness and understanding. The Cradle and its tiny Occupant; the Angel song of Peace and Good Will; the Wise Men's Gifts—everything in the setting and heart of the story would seem to cry out against anything like arrogance or self-assertion or heedless self-seeking, and to emphasize every lesson of simple goodness and kindly thought and sympathetic relationship. We can make no mistake in taking these lessons to ourselves today. No meaning we may get out of Christmas can have any profounder significance than these messages that tell us that we ought to be simpler and kinder and more human and more nearly in harmony with the great divine impulse that sent Jesus into the world as a little baby. And no discovery of profound truth will ever do any of us nearly so much good as will an honest and earnest endeavor to live up to this truth that we so well know.—The New Outlook.
